

We need local news. We need a fair, competitive media. One that does not always promote its own political agenda (witness Clear Channel and the Dixie Chicks). I grew up believing that journalists wrote honest, fair, balanced reports...that, for the most part, I could rely on what I read in the paper or heard on radio/TV news. This does not always seem to be the case these days.